f) Management's perception of risk factors:

Management's perception of risk factors: Production of alloy steel globally is around 120 million tonnes per annum and around 6 million tonnes per annum in India. Company produces specialty steel long products which cater to a very niche market and not commodity steel products. Recently, huge increase in the import of commodity steel products from China has affected the entire domestic steel industry putting pressure on prices of steel products. Government of India has imposed safeguard duty in September 2015 on import of HR coils, thus protecting the interests of domestic steel industry. Management expects that fortunes of its alloy steel segment are poised to get an impetus as the country's automobile growth story unravels with automobile Original Equipment Manufactures increasing their capacity through expansion and its export of stainless steel products could improve on account of quality and cost competitiveness in the world markets.

The performance of Industrial Machinery Division of the Company has been impacted on account of slowdown in modernization and expansion activities in steel, infrastructure and industrial sectors. Under the present economic specialized equipment.
